3. About this arrangement

The Department of Energy and Public Works, Queensland Government Procurement (QGP) established Standing Offer Arrangement QGP0065-21 for the provision of Salary Packaging Administration Services.

This arrangement commenced on 1 April 2022 and is due to expire on 31 March 2026. The successful Salary Packaging Administrators available via the SOA are:

- Remuneration Services (Qld) Pty Ltd (RemServ)
1300 304 010 or <http://www.remservsalarypackage.com.au/>
- Smartsalary Pty Ltd
1300 218 598 or <https://qld.smartsalary.com.au/>.

Both Suppliers were on the previous SOA. Further information is available on the Salary Packaging Administration Services SOA page on QCD.

Queensland Government employees will be able to:

- Choose either of the two Salary Packaging Administrators under the arrangement.
- Salary package with only one of the two Salary Packaging Administrators at any one time.
- Request to transition between the Salary Packaging Administrators at any time, with requests processed twice a year, on 1 April and 1 November (Transition Effective Date).

QGP at its entire discretion may introduce different transition procedures.

Transitioning is the only way employees can move between Salary Packaging Administrators. Employees transitioning between Salary Packaging Administrators must repay any outstanding FBT liability and/or Bus Travel Benefit debt prior to transition.

Employees must not use other methods to move between Salary Packaging Administrators. This would increase their risk of incurring an FBT liability and may also have their salary packaging agreement terminated.

Employees commencing salary packaging must disclose to their Salary Packaging Administrator if they have salary packaged previously in that FBT year. This is important to avoid the possibility of incurring a personal FBT liability.

4. Employee information booklet

A range of information booklets have been developed in relation to the Salary Packaging Administration arrangement for Queensland Government employees, which include:

- Salary packaging information booklet (a separate information booklet has been developed for Queensland Health employees)
- Superannuation information booklet
- Remote Area information booklet
- Motor vehicles and novated leasing information booklet.

Further information is available on the Salary Packaging Administration Services SOA page on QCD.

5. About superannuation salary packaging

Salary packaging can be a tax effective way of receiving your salary as a combination of income and benefits. Salary packaging allows you to deduct some of your pre-tax income and use it for benefits such as superannuation. By reducing your pre-tax income you can reduce the amount of income tax you pay and increase the amount you take home each pay period.

Your own personal circumstances will determine whether salary packaging superannuation will be of benefit to you. You should talk to your independent financial adviser to see how salary packaging could benefit you.

From 1 July 2017, most Queensland Government employees are able to choose the fund to which they can have their superannuation contributions paid, which is known as choice of fund.

You can choose the superannuation fund you want your contributions paid into, including a self-managed superannuation fund, by completing a superannuation choice of fund form and providing this form to your employer.

The fund you nominate must be a complying fund. A complying fund is an Australian superannuation fund that meets specific requirements and obligations outlined in the Commonwealth's Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993.

It is your responsibility to ensure that the fund is a complying super fund. For more information, refer to <http://superfundlookup.gov.au>.

You can salary package your superannuation contributions to the complying fund you nominate (or to QSuper (part of the Australian Retirement Trust) if you do not nominate another fund). You may choose to salary package your standard contributions and / or voluntary contributions on a regular basis to a complying superannuation fund. If already contributing from post-tax dollars, you may convert your contributions to pre-tax dollars.

Superannuation contribution payments are made directly to your nominated superannuation fund by your employer's payroll office.

Who is eligible?

You are eligible to salary package if your employment is one of the following:

- permanent full or part-time
- temporary full or part-time
- long-term casual.

Casual employees are not normally eligible to participate in salary packaging, however long-term casuals (i.e. those employed on a regular and systematic basis for 12 months or more, with a reasonable expectation of ongoing employment – as per s 72(8) of the Industrial Relations Act 1999) are eligible to package after 12 months' employment.

What can I package?

The Queensland Government does not place a limit on the amount of salary that an employee may salary package to superannuation. However, employees need to be aware of the impact of the Commonwealth's Concessional Contributions Cap, which affects the amount that employees are able to salary package into superannuation in a tax effective manner (refer section 7 below for further details).

You can package up to 100% of your fortnightly total salary for superannuation. 'Total salary' ordinarily means the total gross remuneration including salaries, wages and permanent allowances, but excluding overtime. It is, however, subject to any provisions to the contrary as contained in a certified agreement or ruling issued under part 3 of the Public Service Act 2008.

Other things to know about salary packaging superannuation

It is your responsibility to check your pay slip and statements to ensure that the correct amounts are being deducted pre-tax and to notify your Salary Packaging Administrator if the amounts are not as requested.

Details of superannuation salary packaging administration fees under the standing offer arrangement QGP0065-21 are available via the Salary Packaging Administration Services SOA page on QCD.

These administration fees will be paid fortnightly via a pre-tax payroll deduction from your salary.

It is not possible to salary package spouse superannuation contributions.

All superannuation contributions will cease immediately if you terminate your employment or are on leave without pay.

Financial advice is strongly recommended if you choose to salary package superannuation.

Where an employee salary packages their superannuation contributions, Commonwealth legislation requires the employer to show on the employee's end of year income statement the amount of superannuation that was salary packaged. This amount is known as reportable employer super contribution (RESC) and will be required to be included in your income tax return. Your reportable super contributions will affect the income tests for some tax offsets, the Medicare levy surcharge, and certain government benefits and obligations. It is strongly recommended you obtain professional advice in regard to these issues.

Financial advice

It is strongly recommended that you consult an independent financial adviser to discuss if salary packaging is suitable for you. Financial advisers can be registered financial planners (FPA), Certified Practising Accountants (CPA), Chartered Accountants or National Institute of Accountants (NIA) members.

Salary packaging will adjust your salary amounts and may, in some instances, be unsuitable for certain Queensland Government employees. Your salary packaging administrator maintains a list of financial advisers or you can consult a:

- Chartered Accountant
- Certified Practising Accountant (CPA)
- licensed member of the Financial Planning Association of Australia (FPA)
- member of the National Institute of Accountants (NIA).

For more information, refer to choosing a financial advisor, published by the Australian Securities and Investment Commission.

Where can I go for extra information?

Your Salary Packaging Administrator can assist with general information regarding salary packaging. Additional information is available from the Australian Tax Office, QSuper and Queensland Treasury.

6. Salary packaging superannuation

Choice of superannuation fund

As noted above, from 1 July 2017, employees may be able to choose the superannuation fund they want their contributions paid into.

You will not be able to choose your superannuation fund if you are:

- A member of the QSuper Defined Benefit scheme, unless you first transfer to a QSuper Accumulation account
- A member of the closed QSuper Parliamentary scheme, the Judges' scheme or the Governor's scheme or
- Employed by a non-core agency, including government-owned corporations and some statutory authorities.

If you are unsure, you should check with your agency's payroll / human resources unit.

QSuper will remain the Queensland Government's default superannuation fund, meaning your superannuation contributions will continue to be made to QSuper, if you don't choose another fund.

Information about choosing a super fund is available on the Australian Securities and Investment Commission.

Salary packaging to State or Queensland Police accounts

If you are salary packaging your superannuation in a State or Queensland Police superannuation fund, you must contact QSuper for details of the correct contribution rate (including the appropriate gross up).

Details of the correct contribution rate must be provided to your Salary Packaging Administrator to ensure the correct contribution rate is specified on your application form.

The contribution rate will vary from person to person.

Note: State and Queensland Police superannuation members must contribute at the rate advised by QSuper and you must provide details of this contribution rate with your superannuation application or amendment.

QSuper defined benefit account

Members of the defined benefit account will need to marginally increase their standard contribution to cover the amount deducted for the contributions tax and ensure they receive the same yearly growth multiple when salary packaging (the superannuation salary packaging application form shows the relevant percentage increase). This increase is not compulsory, but if you choose not to pay the increased amount your end benefit will be reduced.

Note: State and Queensland Police members are required to gross up to the rates advised by QSuper (refer to section 6 above).

What about employer contributions?

Regardless of your nominated superannuation fund, your accumulation or defined benefit account will also receive the required employer contribution as shown in the following tables, up to July 2023.

Accumulation account

The maximum accumulation account contribution is:

- 5% for Queensland Government employees (excluding Queensland Police Service employees)
- 6% for Queensland Police Service employees.

However, employees may pay an additional voluntary contribution to cover the contributions tax.

The tables below provide details of employer contributions:

Queensland Government employees (excluding Queensland Police Service employees)

Changes to your contributions in 2023

Announced in July 2022, the Queensland Government is changing superannuation contribution arrangements for its employees in 2023. These changes are designed to simplify contribution arrangements and provide more flexibility for public sector employees.

Employees are encouraged to visit the "Upcoming superannuation changes" page on forgov for full details and a range of resources regarding the changes.

Changes from 1 July 2023

From 1 July 2023, the key changes are:

- Queensland Government employees will receive 12.75% in employer superannuation contributions. This is higher than the Commonwealth's superannuation guarantee rate.
- Police Officers will receive 18%.

This rate will apply to ordinary time earnings (OTE) which includes shift and weekend penalties and all forms of paid leave. Depending on your remuneration arrangements, OTE may be a larger base than what was previously used (superannuable salary).

How does this affect me?

Accumulation members

- From 1 July 2023 your employee contributions will remain the same however, you'll no longer need to make an employee contribution to receive the full 12.75% from your employer. You can choose to reduce your employee contribution to 0% however, it will not change unless you opt out.
- From 1 April 2023, if you're an accumulation member, you can reduce your employee contribution to 0%, but the employer contribution would decrease to 10.5% of OTE until the superannuation changes come into effect (on 1 July 2023). This will be offset when the once-off 'top-up' payment is made.
- You may receive a once-off 'top-up' employer contribution to bring your 2022–23 employer contributions to a total of 12.75% of your 2022–23 OTE. For Police Officers this 'top-up' would be 18% of your 2022–23 OTE. This super payment will be made between 1 July and 30 September 2023.

If you want to amend your employee contributions, contact your Salary Packaging Administrator.

Financial advice is strongly recommended if you choose to change how you salary package superannuation.

Defined Benefit members

There will be no change to employee contribution arrangements for defined benefit members.

New Queensland Government employees

The employee contribution will continue to default to 6% for Police Officers, 0% for casuals and 5% for other employees. Employees may reduce their contributions, if they choose to.

Concessional Contributions Cap

If you are salary packaging your employee or voluntary contributions, consider if the changes will mean you exceed your concessional contributions cap and what you need to do.

Employees are encouraged to visit the "Upcoming superannuation changes" page on forgov for full details and a range of resources regarding the changes.

The Commonwealth Government Co-Contribution Scheme

The Commonwealth Government Co-Contribution benefit is available to some employees earning lower incomes and who make personal after tax contributions to their superannuation. The Commonwealth Government will determine eligibility once a year by matching personal contribution details with income details provided on income tax returns. For more information on this scheme please contact your nominated Superannuation Fund.

Salary packaged (before tax) contributions do not qualify under this scheme. You should contact your payroll office about any after tax contributions you require.

7. Salary packaging and services

How packaging begins

You should complete the appropriate forms available from your Salary Packaging Administrator. Your Salary Packaging Administrator will make the necessary arrangements with your payroll office to commence salary packaging in accordance with your application.

Your payroll office will forward your salary packaged amount directly to your nominated superannuation fund and the salary packaging administration fee to your Salary Packaging Administrator.

Commencement will be dependent on the pay cycle arrangements of your employer. You should check your payslip to ensure that the pay deductions commence as required.

If you do not nominate a superannuation fund, an account will be established with QSuper.

Making changes

If your superannuation contributions go into a defined benefit account, then an increase in your salary would not change the amount forwarded to QSuper or be put into place until the commencement of the next financial year on 1 July.

You need to notify your Salary Packaging Administrator if you change:

- employer (agency) or payroll arrangements
- personal details (e.g. name, email, address)
- amount of superannuation contributions.

Changing superannuation fund

If you wish to change your superannuation fund, you should contact your payroll office for the appropriate form/s.

You will need to advise only your Salary Packaging Administrator if you change the amount of superannuation contributions with your preferred superannuation fund.

Note: Only eligible employees will be able to change superannuation funds (refer section 5 above). If you are unsure, you should check with your employer's payroll / human resources.

Ending salary packaging arrangements

You can cease your salary packaging arrangement at any time by giving at least 21 days' notice in writing to your Salary Packaging Administrator. You also need to complete and submit a Salary packaging cessation form to your Salary Packaging Administrator. The form is available from your Salary Packaging Administrator's website:

RemServ: <http://www.remservsalarypackage.com.au>

Smartsalary: <https://qld.smartsalary.com.au>.

8. Taxation and benefit limits for superannuation

Superannuation salary packaging arrangements may lead to personal taxation savings and hence increased net pay. There are, however, other tax considerations.

Contributions tax

Salary packaged pre-tax contributions are deemed to be employer contributions and are taxed at the rate of 15% as they are paid into superannuation. Post-tax contributions are not subject to contributions tax.

Concessional contribution limits

The concessional contributions cap is the limit that an employee or an employer on behalf of an employee can contribute to superannuation without attracting excess contributions tax, which is in addition to the 15% contributions tax deducted by the superannuation fund (30% where the employee's income for these purposes exceeds $250,000). The employee is liable for the excess contributions tax, not the superannuation fund.

Concessional contributions include those made by an employee pre-tax under a salary packaging agreement, contributions made by an employer on behalf of an employee, and contributions for which a tax deduction has been claimed.

Refer to the ATO website for a current listing of concessional contributions caps for the relevant financial year. The concessional contributions cap applies to the total of all concessional contributions paid into all of your superannuation funds.

You will need to review and monitor your contributions to determine if you exceed these limits. It is important to be aware that neither your nominated superannuation fund nor your employer monitors your contributions to ensure you do not exceed the cap. Further information is available from your nominated superannuation fund.

Reportable employer superannuation contributions (RESC)

The amounts you have packaged for superannuation will be reported as a RESC on your end of year income statement at the end of the financial year. While you are not required to pay income tax on the RESC, this information will be used for income tests for various Commonwealth benefits, tax offsets and surcharges.

9. Superannuation salary packaging arrangements

If you are not currently salary packaging and wish to commence salary packaging your superannuation contributions you will need to complete and submit a:

- Salary packaging participation agreement (SPPA)

- Salary packaging application form; and either the:
  - QSuper salary packaging amendment form (excludes Qld Police Service employees), or
  - QSuper salary packaging amendment form (Qld Police Service employees only).

These forms are available on the Salary Packaging Administrators' websites:

RemServ: <http://www.remsservsalarypackage.com.au>

Smartsalary: <https://qld.smartsalary.com.au/>.

If you are amending your existing salary packaging to include superannuation, you should contact your Salary Packaging Administrator.
